

SING apove!

The big cube screen was used to good effect in publicizing Emil's own Internet home page www.wakin.com

The photo is titled "the difficult band" in a playful twist on the familiar Easy Band and Hard Band.

"Hey, look up at the screen and check out my website! Please browse on over for a visit, okay?!"

Walk On By...

Wasn't that a brilliant Baiyou strategy to have me deliver the first fancy bouquet to serve as a stage decoration! It did look so elegant lying there under the spotlight surrounded by sparkling tinfoil.

Once Emil began to head toward the bouquet as he was singing a beautiful ballad, all the rows of Singapore and Taiwan Baiyou stretched out as far as they could with their lightsticks and signs pointing: "It's THERE! THERE! THERE!" But Emil was deeply immersed in the melody of his beautiful song, and so with much feeling he strolled right by the bouquet as he sang.....

Then as we rocked and cheered to Yu Quan's fantastic performance, it seemed that each of them glanced hungrily at the bouquet for a moment as they sang onstage..... heh heh!

Who called these "dinosaur eggs"?!

But the Baiyou never gave up, by gosh! At the next opportunity they were in full 'giraffe mode' and all of their lightsticks were pointing even more furiously than ever. So Emil found the flowers after all!

→ Any thoughts?